COMPANY OVERVIEW

Livewired Electrical was established in August 2006 by owners Nick Payne and Grant Spies. Over the years, Livewired and its staff have ventured down many different avenues of work, giving them a wide variety of experience.

During the first few of years, Livewired focused mostly on domestic, small commercial installations and maintenance. These works included:

- Small installs – fans, power points, additional light etc.
- Re-wire's and renovations.
- New homes.
- Shop and office fit-outs and renovations.
- General electrical maintenance and repairs

More recently, Livewired has expanded into also completing large commercial, mining, industrial, communications and air conditioning projects. We now have teams that can cater for any job, no matter how big or small.

“After appointing Mick Fleming as Projects/Operations Manager, we have transformed our structure in a way that gives us the ability to take on any project that comes our way. We now have management, recruitment, quality assurance, training and reviewing systems in place that allows our company to mould into the shape that it needs to be at any given time.”

Grant Spies – Director at Livewired Electrical

All of the above experiences has helped Livewired to grow to a strong and successful electrical contracting business with a view for growing into the future.

From maintenance to mansions to shopping malls, we've got you covered!

OUR PEOPLE

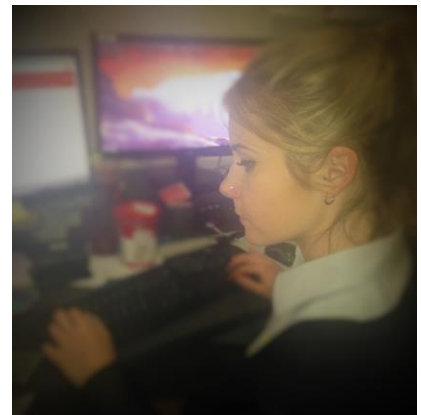

From our humble beginnings of just '2 guys in a ute', Livewired has now grown to have over 20 full time staff. This includes fully qualified electricians, Air-conditioning technicians, communications technicians, apprentices and office staff.

We have a strong approach into growing into the future; this involves being extremely active in giving new people the opportunity to experience the electrical industry.

We not only work with local schools on their work experience programs for the younger generation, but also are involved with other recruitment agencies for mature-aged workers.
